WE NOMINATE

Two of this community's most beloved and least publicized members—Mabel and Bessie Hillian—who this year are quietly observing the 40th anniversary of their arrival in Princeton as "temporary employees." It was in 1917 that two 'teen-age girls (Mabel in the early winter and Bessie several months later) joined the staff of the then scraggly University Infirmary which stood on the site of the present 32-year old Isabella McCosh Infirmary. They were originally hired as dishwashers but gradually took over all of the Infirmary's cooking. Eventually they were joined by Brother Tom, now the Infirmary's head orderly and one of the University's most tireless and knowing athletic enthusiasts, and two of their kinsfolk, "Big" and "Little" Rosa Malacki.

Honored this past week by the Infirmary's Auxiliary for their unselfish efforts over the years, the Sisters Hillian from a farm family in Cheraw, S. C., have showered understanding and kindnesses upon thousands of Infirmary patients—undergraduates, graduate students and faculty members alike. In line of duty they have no favorites and for any "healthy man patient" would unerringly prescribe what they have found to be the "all-time Princeton favorite:" vegetable soup, steak, potatoes, fresh corn, ice cream and coffee or milk. After-hours, their Down South Kitchen, in the shadows of Palmer Physical Laboratory, is often a stopping-place for a number of "well patients," including Harold Willis Dodds, student members of families they have known for years and friends of friends.

For the duration of two wars, beginning in 1941, the Hillians were responsible for the saga of Princeton's Down South Garden. "During the big war," Mabel recalls, "you couldn't get fresh vegetables so we thought we ought to start a garden." They enlisted the University's support, wound up with a two-acre tract adjoining the athletic fields and devoted their free daylight hours to growing hard-to-procure items in prodigious quantities. With Brother Tom serving as "Head Man," the Hillians provided all of the labor and continued the project through the Korean War, broadening their operations to the degree that they were annually giving away—to deserving families and organizations—nearly 1,000 quarts of such home-preserved delicacies as relish, dill pickles, chili sauce and a variety of vegetables.

Characteristic of the Hillians' profound concern for others, whether it's "digging deep" for a burned-out friend or preparing for a church supper, was a question Bessie asked some years ago, just before Christmastime. The University was planning to close the Infirmary for the holiday season. Bessie, however, asked: "Who is going to cook Christmas Dinner for the nurses." The answer in Bessie's words were: "The hospital stayed open, so everybody stayed." Both Bessie and Mabel are ushers of the Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church. The former is her church's presiding usher and is also vice-president of the inter-church Ushers' Council, while Mabel is treasurer of the Mt. Pisgah ushers' organization as well as treasurer of the Willing Workers.

For seeking out opportunities that enable them to work with and for others; for insisting that they have received infinitely more than they will ever give; for looking upon four decades of meritorious service as a "very short time indeed;" they are TOWN TOPICS' nominees for

LULL BEFORE STORM

Political Announcements Due. A strange quiet dominates the Princeton political scene this week, not unlike the lull before a storm. And yet, thanks to the fact that the political storm must move in by March 7 (deadline for primary petitions) and also to the whispered rumors that emerge persistently, politics still rates as Princeton's No. 1 story this week.

Republicans as well as Democrats are keeping mum for the moment, obviously anxious to withhold any new official announcements until they can present full slates for voter consideration. Both groups, now caucusing on a near-nightly basis in an effort to line up strong teams before deadline time, are expected to release names of all candidates early next week.

The GOP leaders, having already announced R. Kenneth Fairman and Stanley C. Smoyer as their standard-bearers in the Township, where two Committee posts are open this year, are willing to admit — though not with much fanfare — they have problems in the Borough, where the mayoralty and two Council seats are up for grabs. Councilman Tristam B. Johnson continues to be mentioned most often as the Republican choice for mayor, but the party's leaders decline to comment on the situation, noting only that "we are working on several very good prospects for the Borough races."

The Democrats, having announced nothing to date, are vitally concerned with the job of picking strong contenders in both Princeton municipalities. Realizing their opportunity in this non-Eisenhower year, they admit readily they are looking everywhere for political aspirants who might give them their best results in years. The Democrats are meeting often, and do not deny that they are experiencing difficulty in obtaining the services of the contenders they want.

Colman a Good Bet. Though he is not saying so himself, ex-Councilman Richard W. Colman is expected to be among the Borough candidates by next week. The Democrats appreciate his vote-getting appeal, and there is even talk of running him for the mayor's position. Also, they are not giving up on another former Councilman, Raymond F. Male, who has said, "No," in a firm voice but is now believed to be weakening.

While the Republicans remained silent this week, other than announcing that Senator Wayne Dumont Jr., GOP candidate for the governorship, will address a meeting of the Republican Club of Princeton Friday, March 8, in Borough Hall, the opposition issued one official statement through Richard A. Lester, president of the Princeton Democratic Club:

"The Democratic candidates for the Township will be announced next week. Then it will be up to the Township voters to decide whether they want to continue one-party government or whether they would prefer more adequate representation to check on a Republican majority and thus avoid some unfortunate mistakes such as those that occurred in connection with the recent re-assessment of real estate in the Township."

On the non-partisan front, members of the League of Women Voters are doing their best to assure a good primary turnout in April by advising unregistered voters that they must register by March 7 in order to be eligible to vote in the primary (see qualifications and stipulations, page 9). In addition, they are trying to make sure that Township residents realize there are now nine voting districts in that municipality instead of five, the four largest having been split by Committee resolution and okayed by Mercer County several weeks ago.

ZONING DISPUTE

Water Tank Is Target. Strenuous objection to the construction of a 90-foot water tower and accompanying pump station between State Highway 206 and Cherry Hill Road was apparent Monday evening as some 50 persons turned out to hear discussion on the matter at the Township Zoning Board's February meeting. As a result of the lengthy debate, the board postponed its official hearing on the Princeton Water Company's request for the 100,000-gallon tank until its next session, March 25.

Leading spokesman for the Hillcrest Association, which provided much of the audience, was Fred Van Deventer of Mansgrove Road. Mr. Van Deventer cited the "unsightly" feature of the two proposed structures, contending that they might well influence real estate values throughout the immediate residential area.

Mr. Van Deventer told Town Topics that his group was "not opposing (the request) officially," but merely asking for a month's respite in order to determine the advisability of a formal objection. "The notices concerning Monday's meeting came suddenly last Friday," he observed, "so there were lots of people who didn't know what was going on. We want to talk to experts on this matter, and therefore we asked for a postponement to enable us to inquire."

On the other side of the fence is Albert Salzman, Township Committeeman, former Township mayor and land developer on whose Cherry Hill Road property the water company would like to build the tower and pump station. Mr. Salzman argued that the two structures would not be the least bit "unsightly," pointing out that he has plans to eventually develop 50 lots—with houses on them in the $35,000 to $55,000 category—and that he certainly wouldn't want anything "unsightly" that might hurt his chances of selling these acre-and-a-half parcels.

"Naturally, the 30-day delay and possibility of further trouble represents an awful setback for me," Mr. Salzman said. "And it is really quite surprising. I'd say 100% of the opposition came from people in the Hillcrest section who live 1,000 to 1,500 feet from the two locations I'm offering for the structures. Why, I'm willing to wager that none of them will even be able to see the tank when it's put up."

Elaborating, the developer explained that the water company plans to place the tower in a wooded area on his property—well out of sight—and intends to build a good-looking pump station, complete with scenic landscaping. "Eventualy these structures will aid everyone in the area, where many wells are dry and others do not offer good service."

Mr. Salzman completed his observation by mentioning his annoyance over the fact that the Hillcrest Association led the opposing force. "I have fought tooth and nail for the development of that section, and now look what happens. There's just no reasoning behind it."

PERSONALITIES

David E. Lilienthal, 88 Battle Road, onetime TVA chairman and longtime governmental adviser of note who this week purchased (for an un-announced figure) his new four-bedroom, three-bath home on Battle Road, an attractive house on Revolutionary ground (part of the old Olden property) that was built originally (in 1932) for Professor Theobald Smith and was occupied—until his death last year—by Dr. Frank Aydelotte. The home was sold to its new owner, who will move to Princeton about June 1, by Dr. William O. Aydelotte of Iowa City, with Edmund Cook & Company handling the transaction in cooperation with the Helen Van Cleve agency.

ROUND-UP

After that worst-in-history "storm" which never even thought about maturing in the east on Washington's Birthday, despite ample advance notice in this column, is a Princeton movement afoot to scrap UNIVAC, the oh-so-wrong prognosticator . . . Borough Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro went through his Municipal Court session so fast this week (two cases, five minutes) that attending officers considered giving him a ticket for speeding . . . Speaking of the Borough police, Sgt. Randolph E. Applegate earned the thanks of his Trenton counterparts on Monday by nabbing a familiar face, Leopoldo Hernandez, 229½ John Street, wanted in the capital city for an alleged assault and battery, right in the middle of Palmer Square.

. . . It took "The Rainmaker" a full week to do his job in Princeton, precipitation finally falling throughout the last day of the movie's run at the Playhouse . . . Princeton High School students took over at the monthly meeting of the Borough Board of Education Tuesday night. Foremost in the Junior board's thought were evening basketball games to replace the current afternoon ones, but the senior board did not seem quite as enthusiastic, for various well-qualified reasons.

Officials expect an interesting session of the Borough Zoning Board this Thursday evening, when construction of a new University Store in a residential zone (University Place) will be the No. 1 item of business . . . Dedication ceremonies for the brand-new Kendall Park School will be held at noon this Saturday, an indication that an equally new community of 500 homes on Princeton's fringe is nearing completion . . . Ronald T. Taylor, 110 Witherspoon Street, has been appointed a candidate for admission to the Air Force Academy, one of 10 young men from Mercer and Burlington Counties selected by Congressman Frank Thompson Jr. . . . A lot of large paper 'Y' posters, placed on the windows of Nassau Street stores in observances of YMCA-YWCA Week, were removed shortly after their placement Sunday by irate Princeton students who thought a group of Yale undergraduates had completed an effective propaganda mission.

Numbers in the News: More than $4,000 for Hungarian Relief was raised at the recent McCarter Theatre benefit concert, according to its sponsors . . . No less than 55 of 87 solicited cities have responded rapidly to Borough Engineer I. Russell Riker's request for parking and traffic data, giving concerned Princeton leaders new solution ideas and a great number of helpful figures.

ADVERTISING VOLUME is based on results. That's why, week in and week out, TOWN TOPICS has double the classified advertising volume of all other Princeton papers combined.

THE HOSPITAL STORY

Expansion Everywhere. Statistics reflecting the constantly-increasing use of Princeton Hospital and a report on the fund-raising campaign to permit the expansion necessitated by the steadily-growing community were made public Monday at the hospital's annual meeting. In 1956, for the first time, adult admissions topped 5,000, with the 900 children born bringing the total number just over 6,000.

The average daily census was 126 persons, compared to 119 the previous year and less than 100 in 1954. Use of the hospital's facilities by residents of other municipalities was also shown to be on the increase, with 44% divided exactly evenly between the borough and the township) coming from Princeton and 56% living elsewhere in Mercer County, in nearby Middlesex and Somerset Counties, or classified as "miscellaneous."

In addition to these statistics which treasurer George W. Conover released, he listed annual operating costs of $1,179,000. These were so close to income from all sources that the hospital's surplus for the year amounted to $862. A high percentage of occupancy made this small surplus possible, but, as administrator John W. Kauffman pointed out, "through the advance of medical science, the length of stay for most illnesses has been reduced, so that the average cost to the individual for a hospitalization is not much more than it was 15 years ago."

John H. Wallace, Jr., president of the board of trustees, reported that the current fund-raising campaign now stands at $250,000—more than half the $491,000 goal. However, this figure includes the $100,000 pledge by Gerard B. Lambert — made on condition that the Princeton community raise the other $391,000 needed to underwrite the present expansion program.

Mr. Wallace stressed the fact that individuals, business firms and institutions which have given generously in the past have responded "overwhelmingly" to the request for additional funds in recent weeks. He went on to say that the more recent arrivals in town are now being asked to meet their responsibilities, and that the hospital has every reason to believe that they, too, will do their share.

Some 500 families who have moved into the community since the last campaign have been told by letter that the expanded hospital will represent a community investment of $59.20 for every person in the area it serves. "We can only hope that many will give more than this amount for each member of their family," Mr. Wallace said; "that still more will face their responsibility and give that amount, and others will give as much as they can."

STEEL GOES UP: A pictorial progress report on construction which will add 54 beds to relieve Princeton Hospital's seriously over-crowded facilities.

Dr. Henry Abrams, president of the hospital's medical staff, reported that it has now grown "to the amazing number of 97 physicians and four resident physicians." He stressed the fact that "we enjoy an open staff, and I am pleased to report that no physician in Princeton who applied for privileges has been turned down." He rated the medical personnel at the hospital as among "the most competent in the country."

Five hospital employees received ten-year service awards at Monday's meeting. They were Miss Mollie O. Hall, directress of nurses; Mrs. Cevillie O. Jones, social service director; Mr. Kauffman, the administrator; Miss Pauline M. Siemion, chief pharmist, and Miss Carolina Scharf, bookkeeper.

HONORS FOR TWO

Alumni Day Prizes Awarded. A Princeton resident was honored last Saturday by the University, as was a retired diplomat at the 43rd annual mid-winter meeting of the National Alumni Association in Dillon Gymnasium. (See picture, page 8).

Michael M. Stewart of 26 Westcott Road received the M. Taylor Pyne Honor Prize which represents the highest general distinction an undergraduate can attain. The 20-year old Rhodes Scholar-elect held a line position on the varsity football team last fall when he earned the Poe Cup gridiron award for sportsmanship.

Tanks For The Memory

Two proud tanks of Company B, 253rd Tank Battalion, were displayed in front of Woolworth's last Saturday, but the damaging effectiveness of the 48-ton vehicles wasn't made clear until they headed for home at mid-afternoon. Then, the exhibition of power was strictly unscheduled, the motivating force being "another one of those woman drivers."

As the big war machines lumbered east on Nassau Street, the unidentified woman driver emerged suddenly from Markham Road. Sam Lisi, operating the tank, swerved to the left to avoid striking the car and, instead, struck a tall oak tree of considerable vintage. Net result: complete uprooting of the tree, which toppled between Gregory Buick and the Princeton Goody Shop without injuring any persons or autos, plus terrain upheaval and curb removal.

Sgt. Lisi of the National Guard didn't need to pull rank on Patrolman Lisi of the Township police, since the mishap occurred in the Borough and no tickets were warranted anyhow. There was some speculation, however, to the effect that the Guard's "Muster Day" might be labeled "Fluster Day" in official reports to national headquarters.

The Woodrow Wilson Alumni Award, created last spring, was given for the first time to former U. S. Ambassador Norman Armour in recognition of his activities "in the nation's service", a phrase coined by the late President. The honor carries a $1,000 cash gift.

Executing diplomatic duties under seven different Presidents, Mr. Armour represented the United States in Chile, Argentina, Spain and Venezuela and was called back again by the State Department after his retirement in 1945 as ambassador to Venezuela and Guatemala. The former university trustee was also Assistant Secretary of State in 1947.

Results of the annual giving campaign, which this year netted a record total of $1,253,000 contributed by alumni, undergraduate parents and friends, was reported during the session by Harry H. Neuberger, chairman. Though short of its goal, the fund drive topped last year's effort when the $1,000,000 was attained for the first time. Of the total alumni body, 69% participated.

rence Benson and John P. Poe, chairmen of the past two campaigns of the Princeton United Community Fund, were awarded Gerard B. Lambert citations this week for "outstanding contributions in community leadership." The presentations were made at the Fund's 19th annual dinner by Thomas P. Cook, president of the organization, who, in 1956, was the first Princetonian to receive the award established by Mr. Lambert to honor persons who have performed distinguished community service.

In announcing the dual winners for 1957, the Fund president cited Mr. Benson for "his wise counsel in helping fashion a new and better Princeton United Community Fund for outstanding leadership in the 1955 campaign." Mr. Poe was cited for "accomplishing the very difficult task of still further advancing the Community Fund drive in 1956 to a new record high, and for his wisdom and unstinting efforts in enlisting new leadership which has greatly strengthened the Community Fund."

Some 100 members and trustees of the Fund, who listened to numbers by the Columbus Boy choir School during their dinner at Trinity Church, also heard considerable verbal music when Mr. Poe reported on the "excellent results" of last fall's Fund campaign. The various divisions raised $155,000, exceeding the previous campaign by 14%. Citations for "grateful recognition of leadership" in the 1956 drive were given to the 42 division chairmen and other leading volunteers who, in Mr. Poe's words, "showed great determination and ability in reaching the new record total."

Along with dinner and entertainment, the Fund leaders conducted their annual business meeting, with Mr. Cook presiding. The president presented the organization's annual report, in which he observed that "professional direction and community response teamed up in 1956 to produce the most significant developments in our entire history. This change is symbolic of our broadened purposes, our new connection with the Council of Community Services, our revitalized internal organization and the record-breaking financial support given by our thousands of members."

New articles of incorporation were approved by the attending members, officially changing the organization's name from the Princeton Community Chest to the United Community Fund—a change hailed by Walter H. Scott, executive director, because of the Fund's desire to promote greater community participation through a single, united drive. Mr. Cook also took the opportunity to announce the names of 22 new Fund trustees: Mrs. John V. Fine, B. Franklin Bunn, Bernard Kilgore, Mrs. Mary Riker, Stanley Smoyer, J. T. Vollbrecht, Mrs. Margaret Nevin, John Alden, Bruce Bedford, Henry Chauncey, Kenyon Kilbon, A. N. Lippman, Mrs. Everett P. Tomlinson, George R. Cook 3d, James K. Delano, Miss Esther Dilworth, Mrs. Howell H. Furman, Edward Gemmell, Charles Hurford, Simeon Moss, Mrs. Jan A. Rajchman, and Jack Worthington.

Following the business session, the newly-elected trustees chose Fund officers for 1957-58. Mr. Poe was named president, to head this central committee; Raymond A. Bowers, first vice-president; Thomas F. Huntington, second vice-president; Walter B. Jefferson Jr., treasurer; George J. Adriance, assistant treasurer; Mr. Scott, secretary and executive director; and Edna L. Van Schmus, assistant secretary.

Township School Posts Filled. A committee on new buildings has been created by the Township board of education. It will be headed by John E. Dobbin and will study the requirements for an additional school in the Township.

Other committee assignments for board members for the coming year have been announced by William L. Wilson, newly elected president of the board. They include: Instruction — James A. Perkins, chairman; Mr. Dobbin, Dr. J. Donald Butler, Mrs. Jess Epstein and Mrs. Walter Van Winkle.

The grounds and buildings committee will be headed by George Conover and will also include John Donal and Mr. Wilson. Mrs. Epstein will be chairman of the public relations committee with Mr. Dobbin and Mr. Wilson as members.

Other committees: transportation—John W. Landis, chairman; Mrs. Van Winkle and Mrs. Epstein; new sites — Dr. Buther, chairman; Mr. Conover and Mr. Landis; finance — Mr. Wilson, chairman; Mr. Donal and Mr. Conover. Mr. Perkins and Dr. Butler with Mr. Dobbin, make up the new buildings committee.

PCD ELECTIONS

Carey Heads Board Again. James Carey was elected chairman of the Princeton Country Day School board of trustees Tuesday at the annual meeting held at the Nassau Club. Hugh D. Wise will continue as vice-chairman; Richard W. Baker as secretary; Ralph Rotnem as treasurer; and Donald C. Stuart, Jr. as assistant treasurer.

Three new trustees were named: Warren R. Elmer, a member of the Princeton University administration; C. McKim Norton, planning consultant; and Chester R. Stroup, principal of the Nassau Street School. In addition, Prof. Marston Morse, Mr. Carey, Mr. Rotnem and Mr. Stuart were named to new terms as trustees.

LETTER TO THE PUBLIC

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Princetonian:

We wish to apologize to you and the press.

Our policy for over the years, whether in our advertising or our personal contacts, is to present our products, our service and our organization in an honest and an unexaggerated manner. We have strived not to be the largest, but the Best Automobile Agency in Princeton. We realize we make mistakes, but we are anxious for the opportunity to correct our mistakes at our expense.

Last November, after returning from Detroit we were proud to announce that we expected to handle Chrysler along with DeSoto and Plymouth. We were proud for many reasons. We have been prejudiced in favor of Chrysler products long before we ever dreamed of becoming a dealer, because, for twenty years prior, my association in the automobile finance business gave me many opportunities to compare Chrysler's quality and outstanding engineering over competitive makes.

We were also proud because knowing that we are blessed with having the opportunity of operating our agency in a community second to none, that it would make our organization more valuable to Princeton and that we would have the opportunity to serve your community to a greater extent than before.

On previous occasions our advertisements have indicated our strong feeling that for Princeton buyers to go out of Princeton to buy cars is a reflection on us as Automobile dealers and we strive to make sure that you of Princeton can not afford to take this chance.

The best service is such an important factor today, yet so many car buyers under estimate this statement until it is too late. The inconvenience of having your car serviced out of town in addition to being just another customer instead of the personalized attention we strive to offer, in many instances can not be appraised in dollars and cents.

Now the reason for the apology. Chrysler Division actually has not had a Chrysler dealer in Princeton since November 9, 1956. We delivered one new Chrysler and as late as February 12, 1957 we were told that we were going to get Chrysler cars right away. However, February 18th we were again told that the idea of a Chrysler dealer in Princeton had been postponed indefinitely.

We hope that indefinitely will be very short because we think there has been a mistake in their latest decision, but until the matter is worked out you should know.

The delay in this matter, in our opinion, has been caused by one or two out of town Chrysler dealers who have resorted to some form of pressure on Chrysler to reverse their original plan. They hope that you will be forced to go out of town and buy from them.

We have the highest regard for the integrity of the Chrysler Executives in Detroit whom we know and we are sure they will not let such pressure win over fair reasoning and previous commitments. We also feel that Chrysler has a higher regard for Princeton than to expect Princetonians to be inconvenienced by having to go out of town to buy and look for their service out of town.

As a Chrysler Product Dealer we have the highest percentage of penetration in our territory of any Chrysler product dealer in Mercer County for the year 1956. We know this is due to satisfied customers over the years. With satisfied customers you do not worry about competition.

To you Chrysler would-be owners, Chrysler owners, and Chrysler stockholders, we hope the delay in serving you will be short. In the mean time we invite you to try our service. Also we would like to know if you are contemplating buying a Chrysler, DeSoto or Plymouth this year.

This letter has been long and if you have read it, we thank you.

Sincerely,

McCARTER THEATRE

Tickets Going Fast. Although a fair amount of seats for both performances were still available as TOWN TOPICS went to press at mid-week, McCarter Theatre's directors expressed confidence that the celebrated Renaud-Barrault ensemble will play before full houses this Saturday afternoon and evening. At 3 p.m., and again at 8:30, the French company will offer its interpretation of Moliere's human comedy, "Le Misanthrope."

Mrs. Herbert McAneny, theatre manager, reported from the McCarter box office (Princeton 5515) that she hopes to be able to take care of all ticket requests through Friday, warning at the same time that the much-acclaimed production may well attain SRO status before then. Prices for the matinee range from $2.50 to $4, while the evening ducats are priced from $3 to $5.

In extolling the high calibre of Madeleine Renaud, Jean-Louis Barrault and their supporting stars of France's stage and screen, Managing Directors Isadora Bennett and Richard Pleasant pointed with pride to the success they achieved recently at the Winter Garden in New York City. Not only did they earn splendid reviews for the 17th Century play they will recreate here, in their native French, but also for the various other dramas, comedies and variety programs they concocted.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

Planning for Debut. For next month's christening of the new Playmill on Alexander Street, the Princeton Community Players are inviting members of more than 40 theatre groups to see the debut production, "Amphitryon 38." Mrs. Blackwell Smith, in charge of arrangements for these special invitations, said this week they have been issued through the New Jersey Theatre League.

Anticipating a heavy demand for play tickets, other than the requests from the above-mentioned outside groups, John Drury, chairman of the Players' ticket committee, has mailed advance applications to members and patrons of the Community Players. The chairman also announced that, beginning next Monday, tickets will go on public sale at Bamberger's and the University Store. All seats for the opening production will be reserved.

Rehearsals for the Jean Giraudoux comedy, under the direction of John F. Becker, are progressing well, according to sneak-preview observers. The play will be presented at The Playmill six times—on the evenings of March 14, 15, 16, 21, 22 and 23.

Cast Chosen. Georgine Hall will play Isabella and Fred Wardenburg '58 will portray the Duke in Theatre Intime's production of "Measure for Measure." The play will open this Thursday and run nightly through Saturday, March 9, in Murray Theatre.

Other leading roles in the Shakespearean comedy will be played by Bruce Rabbino '58, Angelo; Peter Nicholls, '58, Claudio; and Lelia Barry, Mariana. James Harder, '57, will be Pompey; John Ewadinger 59, Lucio; and Mary Gonzales will double as Francesca and Mistress Overdone. Morton Goolde '57, former president of Theatre Intime, will direct the play. The producer is David Sawyer '59; Michael Glenn '59 is assistant director, and Harry Lacey '57 will be in charge of lighting.

Tickets are available at the University Store (1-5414) or nightly at the box office. They are $1.20 and $1.50 Monday through Thursday, and $1.80 and $2 Friday and Saturday nights.

Actors' Workshop Is Organized. An actor's workship under the direction of Mario Siletti of New York is being held Saturday afternoons from 2 to 5 at the Community Players' Playmill, 262 Alexander Street. At a cost of $3 per session, the workshop is open to all those interested in improving their acting technique.

Mr. Siletti is a member of the staff of the Stella Adler School in New York and has directed and acted in the University Players' summer theatre here. He has also directed two recent Community Players productions, "The Madwoman of Chaillot" in 1954 and last fall's "Mornings at Seven."

Prospective members of the workshop may obtain further information from Mrs. Mary Gonzalez (5015) or are invited to the Playmill Saturday afternoons. If sufficient applicants register for a Wednesday night class, one will be formed.

doubt that it is the personal handiwork of director John Ford, a regular on the Wayne team. Sound familiar? It is; in fact, so familiar the screenplaywrights Frank Fenton and William Wister Haines never bother to give reasons for their actors' actions, preferring instead to have them dash—with typical Wayne dash—through a series of pulsating incidents, based mostly on the life and writings of Commander Frank W. (Spig) Wead. Fortunately, Messrs. Wayne and Ford are accustomed to such situations, and they mould the rawest of raw material into an absorbing production with brash and exuberant performances. Dan Dailey, in particular, and the whole supporting cast, in general, give the film an all-important lift while Metrocolor makes the entire picture appear as bright as Miss O'Hara's bright red hair.

The Girl Can't Help It (Mar. 3-5), and apparently producer-director Frank Tashlin can't either. He is blessed with considerable motion picture talent, a good story idea (a spoof on the current rock 'n' roll craze) and all the advantages of modern movie-making, but he still comes up with something less than the best. Academy Award - winning Edmond O'Brien, performing with customary skill, plays the part of a nostalgic ex-gangster who wants to marry hypermammiferous Jayne Mansfield—IF she can become someone "important" by succeeding as a singer. Funnyman Tom Ewell, an alcoholic agent who manages to see through the haze, does his utmost to solve O'Brien's dilemma, then decides wisely that Miss Mansfield is the housewife type, not a singer, and marries her himself. Julie London, Ray Anthony, Fats Domino, The Platters and Little Richard are on hand to satisfy rock 'n' rollers, while Miss Mansfield is properly presented to satisfy those who aren't much interested in story, acting or today's music trend.

TOGETHER AGAIN: John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara team once more in "The Wings of Eagles," MGM's spectacular, directed by four-time Academy Award-winner John Ford, which concludes its current run at the Playhouse this Saturday.

Battle Hymn (Mar. 6-12) is based on the true account of Col. Dean Hess, an Air Force officer with frightful World War II memories who left his Ohio pulpit and went back into a cockpit to join in the Korean struggle. Rock Hudson, gaining stature with each new role, contributes a believable portrayal, combining hard-headed fighting with heart-warming aid for a group of unfortunate South Korean orphans. Martha Hyer doesn't face much of a challenge as the colonel's wife, back home in Ohio, but Dan Duryea is fine as a tough but human sergeant, Don Defore is conspicuous in the part of an Air Force captain and Anna Kashfi, a new name to remember, is very capable—as well as attractive—as a spirited Korean native. The film is slowly-moving at time, but the action sequences and the brief moments of quiet, amusing humor add up to a worthwhile family show.

THE GARDEN

Cockleshell Heroes (Feb. 28-Mar. 2) may sound like an unlikely title for a motion picture, hut, with Jose Ferrer performing the dual duties of star and director, Princetonians can be sure that the movie is well-done. Filmed in England and based on the factual story of 10 British marines who manned five kayaks and were responsible for wrecking havoc on Nazi ships lining the strongly fortified docks of Bordeaux, the Ferrer production is a splendid combination of build-up for the surprise attack and the suspense-filled maneuver itself. Along with Ferrer, cast as the major in charge, English actor Trevor Howard is exeellent as the career marine captain who disagrees most of the way with his superior officer's training techniques and battle plans. Authenticity is stressed throughout the film, and it is enhanced by Technicolor.

The Gold of Naples (Mar. 4-9), In Italian with English titles, is the real stuff, not the fool's variety. It actually contains four different tales, filmed on the streets of Naples, and features such established Italian personalities as Toto, Sophia Loren, Vittorio De Sica and Silvana Mangano. Their performances are top-grade. Recommending the import, Cue magazine notes: "Alternately serio-comic, hilarious, dramatic, bittersweet, ironic . . . with photographic beauty, realism, dramatic color, excitement and lively Neapolitan music."

IT'S NEW To Us

Paint A Red Wagon. Next time you decide to touch up the family's youngest tricycle or paint the entire outside of your house, you may begin your project by a visit to the new Sherwin-Williams branch in the Shopping Center (next to the Acme, entrance on the Mall).

Within the 2200 square feet of floor space Sherwin Williams has, of course, paint. You can stop in, buy a half pint and walk out again or spend a morning with the Color Service Plan.

If you watch Arthur Godfrey, this plan is familiar to you already. If you don't watch Mr. G., we are prepared to tell you that the plan consists of a booklet with 1500 different color combinations grouped in color families.

You can start with one color or with none and the guide will tell you what to do in either case. Take the booklet home with you, too, so you can see how the light in your house affects the paint.

The same kind of spiral-bound color guide is available for people who want to paint the house pink but don't know what to do about shutters.

While you're painting, you might as well paper, too, and Sherwin-Williams has a selection of 1500 to 2000 different wallpapers to choose from. Higher-priced papers can be ordered, if you wish.

The old wall-paper will have to come off, probably, and you can rent a wall-paper-steamer-offer from the S. W. store. You can also rent a floor sander, hand sander, paint sprayer, floor polisher and all we can say is with a schedule like that, you'd better get busy.

On the theory that painting is painting, and that any newly painted wall ought to have a new picture hung on it, Sherwin-Williams carries a complete line of artist's supplies. There are Grumbacher's paints, brushes, papers, easels, charcoal, oak frames, books that tell you how and boxes of paints ranging from $2.50 to $25.

If painting is your living and not your hobby, the new branch store will accommodate you, too. You'll find a full stock of painters' supplies available to any contractor or dealer in this area, including such things as coatings of special formulation for industrial plants and their products.

Enough to keep little hands busy for quite a while, isn't it?

Let's Go Dutch. If you read the loftier fashion magazines you probably known that this will be a Dutch and Flemish spring. You can be Dutch very inexpensively by investing in a handsome five-inch deep collar in the new collection at Clayton's, Palmer Squafe West.

This deep collar, almost a capelet, comes in a couple of styles. One is plain white pique with an embroidered and picoted edge. Another has six pique ruffles from shoulder to edge.

If Peter Pan is still your boy, there are little white collars in fascinating variety: organdy, pique, all-over embroidery, Swiss embroidery, nylon organdy, lace-trimmed—you'll pay only $1 for most of them. Separate bibs come in pique or dacron, most of them very tailored with a round suit neckline.

"The Commuter" sounds like the name of a train but it's really a glove designed for a woman who is the family chauffeur. Glove is cotton (white, beige, chamois) with a small zig-zag of para-plastic down the palm side of each finger. This leather-like stitch grabs the wheel of the car and gives you the equivalent of a leather palmed glove. $3.50.

Ready to sew? Clayton's hopes sew. Bates has a new fabric called Winsette that needs no starch. It is muss resistant, doesn't have to be ironed much—you know the kind. Comes in several light prints plus a dark Pennsy Dutch one, and is $1 a yard, 36-inches wide. A companion cotton, Winsheen, is $1.39 and is, as its name suggests, rather like a polished cotton. We saw it in floral stripes.

Liberty silk prints are $5 a yard and worth all of it. Navy or black silk faille ($5.95) would probably make the best-looking spring suit in town. Navy silk linen, same price, is a strong competitor. Silk shantung at $3.19 a yard is pink, yellow, cocoa or turquoise. Try a hand-washable silk print for a spring blouse, or a nubby rayon that's like butcher linen for a light-weight suit (navy, white, mauve, aqua).

You've heard of Cupioni—Clayton's now has this rayon and cotton mixture for a washable, crease resistant dress.

But if you'd rather somebody else did the work-look at the new dress blouses, mostly $5.95. Nylon tricot with nylon net tucks down the front is pleasant to look at. Dacron and cotton combine and drip-dry together, tucks and all. A washable silk print in blue has a pointed collar and string tie. Yolande does hand-embroidery on the beige yoke of a quiet and dignified blouse. It's a regal $12.95, but suppose you had to do the embroidery?

Informal on Uniforms. We are, at the moment. You will be, too, after a quick tour of Landau's, 25 Witherspoon. Uniforms from $3.98 to $12.98 from cotton seersucker to dacron, and everything in between. Sizes 10-46, 14½-24½, 7-15, short and three-quarter sleeves — who could ask for anything more?

Underneath it all you'll find an opaque slip of polished cotton, fitted with a side zipper ($1.98), or a batiste slip with front and back panel. Nylon slips have a double panel, too. Bestform and Realform both make light-weight girdles to wear under uniforms, and both have all-white bras.

A tea apron to go on top might be cotton or dacron. Landau has one with attractive scallops and deep pockets designed especially for waitresses who need a place for pencil and pad.

Into muffi, put on a Maeshore blouse in navy, white or royal blue, with a series of vertical pin-tucks down the front and a round collar: $2.98, of course. A ging-to make bracelets, necklaces, earrings. The color of coral appears again in some little earrings that have the same carved look as the ones we mentioned above.

Bent ovals in white and gold lie flat in a sinuous choker. Round beads in another piece have a wash of greenish gold over white.

These straws would break no camel's back. Light as nothing, the new straw bags at the Cummins Shop are smooth or rough, giddy or sedate. Look at that one—white straw laced over black with a six-inch white tassel sticking out at the top (beige over dark beige, too). Here's a straw bag with a little straw hat, bag and umbrella, doll size, fastened to its side. Shells painted with some nacreous paint decorate another summer bag.

Straw can dress up, too. Here it is in smooth beige combined with leather, or formed into an elephantine envelope. A tote straw has a secure zipper compartment inside to keep prying fingers away from your wallet.

ham at the same price has a short point button down collar, roll-up sleeves and pink, yellow or blue checks. Those who fancy cotton and dacron may have a roll-up blouse in pink, blue, white, or tan with a shallow little pointed collar.

Italian Daffodil. (If there is such a thing.) Anyhow, our interest is domestic, not botanic, and we are speaking of the new Italian pottery at Cummins, 96 Nassau. It is brilliant buttercup (daffodil, if you prefer) yellow with a line design and a scalloped edge.

There's an egg-cup, yellow as a yolk itself, bowls, cups and saucers, serving dishes, casserole, salad bowls, sugar, creamer and a giant teapot that's church-supper size. To give you an idea of price, a cup and saucer are $2.50.

Spring jewelry at Cummins is giant-size, too. Look at the oyster white disc intricately done with something that looks like Islamic carving. It's almost two inches across, but it weighs less than an ounce in your hand and costs only $1.10, including tax. A double dogwood blossom (well, it could be) is also two inches in diameter, its bracts made of plastic in some tropical colors no dogwood ever saw.

Soft pliable plastic has been used for some spiny earrings like sea urchins. They are iridescent grey, violet, yellow, pink.

"Coral" has been used with tiny gold beads and chunks of white

Voters Register for Primary. The deadline for registration of all Borough and Township residents who wish to vote in the coming state primary election is Thursday, March 7.

Eligibility requirements state that voters must be New Jersey residents of a year's duration and have lived in Mercer County for at least five months. U. S. citizenship and a minimum age of 21 is required. Those who have changed their names or addresses since the last election must be re-registered.

During the primary election, party candidates for the general election are nominated. Voters also choose party committee men from their respective election districts.

Those entering the polls for the first time or who have not cast ballots in the last two primary elections are expected to indicate the party of their choice when they vote. Once this designation is made, they may not vote in the primary of another party until they have refrained from voting in two consecutive elections.

The Borough Clerk's office will be open every weekday from 9 to 5 and from 7 to 9 on Thursday evening, March 7. The Township Clerk will observe the same hours and, in addition, will register voters on Saturday morning from 9 until noon.

Inexcusable Poisoning

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In answer to Mrs. Archer's heart-breaking letter describing the tragic death of her dog from rat poison, I wish to speak for the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League and also for all animal lovers.

We heartily agree with her that the careless use of poison is inexcusable and that rat poisoning should properly be the work of an expert. From time to time there have been other cases of poisoning in Princeton and the League has published articles warning the public of the danger to pets and small children.

In addition to the deadly rat poisons, most garden insecticides and weed-killers cause painful and serious illness to pets, squirrels and birds, which unknowingly drink from pools of water contaminated by them. Also paint cans if left out, fill with water and cause lead poisoning. Both domestic and wild animals and birds need more water than most people realize and will drink anything available to quench their thirst.

Unfortunately, there is no direct action that can be taken, except in proved cases of intentional poisoning, but we intend to continue to remind the public of the danger and untold suffering caused by leaving any poisons where animals can reach them.

Obituaries

Willard H. Allen, 64, a resident of 44 Nassau Street until he moved last month to Rosemont, died February 25 at the Hunterdon County Medical Center. The cause of death was a heart attack.

Mr. Allen had been Secretary of Agriculture for New Jersey under five governors, holding the position from 1938 until he resigned early in 1956 because of ill health. He was cited by Governor Meyner this week as "an indefatigable worker" who "understood and enabled citizens generally to comprehend the relationship of agriculture to the entire economy of the State."

Born near Danbury, Conn., Mr. Allen graduated in 1916 from Connecticut Agricultural College. His career in New Jersey began with his appointment in 1921 as extension poultryman. Before being named Secretary of Agriculture by Governor Harold G. Hoffman in 1938, he had been on the Rutgers University staff as a county agricultural leader and a professor in the College of Agriculture. Rutgers awarded him an honorary degree in 1953.

Mr. Allen was a bachelor and left no near survivors. The funeral will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at Kirkpatrick Chapel, Rutgers University, in New Brunswick.

Anthony A. Altieri, 53, of 189 Moore Street died February 26 of a heart attack while at his place of business, the Royal Scarlet Store at 236 Nassau Street. Born in Jersey City, he had been a retail grocer in Princeton for the past 30 years.

Mr. Altieri was a charter member of the Rod and Gun Club, and also held membership in the Citizens' Rifle Club; Princeton Lodge No. 43, Order of the Shepherds of Bethlehem; and Nassau Lodge No. 106, IOOF.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Velda McLeod Altieri; a son, A. Allison; his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Altieri; a sister, Mrs. Leo Rodweller, all of Princeton; and two brothers, John A. of Princeton and Carmen of Trenton.

The service will be held Friday at 3 at the Kimble Funeral Home with the Rev. Guy A. Bensinger, pastor of the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in Princeton Cemetery.

George W. Clausen, 64, of 409 Ewing Street, died suddenly at his home on February 23. A native of Princeton, he had made a life-long career of farming.

Mr. Clausen was a former member of the Princeton Township Board of Education. He also belonged to the Second Presbyterian Church.

Husband of Mrs. Anna Benson Clausen, he leaves in addition, three sons, George, Jr. of Princeton, John H. of Harbourton and Robert L. of Franklin Park; a daughter; and four sisters, among them Mrs. Lewis Weiland of Princeton.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, with Dr. Donald MacLeod, moderator of the Second Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Dorothy F. Hildt, who lived for a number of years at 72 Library Place, died February 10 in Washington, D. C. She was the wife of the late Thomas Hildt, who was active as a banker in Trenton before his death in 1954.

Mrs. Hildt had made her home with her daughter, Miss Margaret Hildt, in New York, following her husband's death. She also leaves two sons, Thomas, Jr. of Cleveland and John H. of Detroit.

The funeral was held in Washington, with burial in Bethesda, Md.

Charles C. Matthews, a former resident of Princeton, died February 24 in New York.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Edna Briscoe Matthews. Requiem high mass was held in St. Aloysius Church, New York, with burial in St. Paul's Cemetery, Princeton, under direction of The Mather Funeral Home.

IN THE SIGN OF THE "Y": Acting Borough Mayor Tristam B. Johnson (left) and Township Mayor Ralph S. Mason have proclaimed this "'Y'- Week" in honor of the Princeton YMCA and YWCA. They are shown here with the presidents of the two organizations, Mrs. Lowrie McLarty, YW president, and R. A. Bowers, YM president.

Topics Of The Town

WHY THE Y'S?

Everyone Participates. A community-wide effort to increase awareness of their activities is being made this week by the YMCA and the YWCA. Signs calling attention to the two "Y" organizations are displayed in the windows of dozens of stores in Princeton, and many of them also have special exhibits showing the range and variety of services offered to children of the community.

Governor Robert B. Meyner has shown his special interest in the undertaking, commenting that "national and state observances too often lose their impact at the community level, but when the initiative comes from within the community itself, the observance takes on the color and force of the community's pride in its own organization and institutions."

Township Mayor Ralph S. Mason and Acting Borough Mayor Tristam B. Johnson have made a joint proclamation commending the Princeton YMCA and YWCA for, "despite severe limitations in space and facilities, having continously expanded their services to the greater Princeton area."

Posters have been hung in the shuttle train to Princeton Junction with permission by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Milkmen will leave 5,000 leaflets with their deliveries in the morning, and 1,000 table cards are displayed in all restaurants, school and company cafeterias, and eating counters in Princeton. Taxicabs and hotel lobbies are using posters, and 500 colored posters for window displays have been designed by school children. Short movies about the "Y" groups will be shown in the movie theaters, and radio listeners will hear about the "Y" on special programs.

The "Y" theme will also be featured by Princeton churches of all denominations, either in the minister's sermon or in discussion groups. Service clubs have been asked to plan for a speaker on the "Y" in the near future, and four large banners will be strung across the streets.

Those interested in information about the services offered by either of the "Y" organizations may call 1-5300 and say to the operator, "Y, please". This will bring a "Y"-expert on the line happy to explain all about the two organizations.

NEW HOMES PLANNED

Housing Development Set. Another development of diversified custom built homes has been announced by Princeton Construction Co. It will be called Princeton Manor.

The company, which built Shady Brook Estates, Lake Carnegie Estates and Overbrook Estates, has planned approximately 65 homes starting at $24,500. Each house will be a different architectural design to avoid look-alike homes, as prescribed in Princeton's zoning ordinances.

All the homes will be located on half-acre plots or larger, professionally landscaped and with all improvements, and no future assessments. The five models will start with a seven-room Colonial split-level home, two baths and garage, at $24,500. An eight-room split level, with garage and full basement, will be priced at $25,500.

A Scholz California contemporary split level with two-and-a-half baths, floor to ceiling glass windows, will be $28,500. A two-story colonial style home with large rooms and two-and-a-half baths will cost $28,500, and a six room ranch with full basement and garage will be priced at $24,500.

The homes will all include ceramic tile bathrooms, formica counter tops, visualite wall ovens, kitchen cabinets and other features. Model homes are open daily from noon to dark. The Middlesex Realty Co., 149 Grover Avenue, is exclusive sales agent.

Booklet Revised. New organizations and churches established in Princeton since the "Know Your Town" booklet was published in 1953, are invited to be listed in the forthcoming revised edition.

The booklet is published and edited by the League of Women Voters. Representatives of new organizations and churches are asked to call Mrs. L. V. Chandler, (1-5549) or Mrs. Herrymon Maurer (1-3266) any day between 5 and 7:30 p.m.

College Club to Meet. The selection of and the requirements for preparatory schools and colleges will be discussed at the Women's College Club's next meeting, Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the social room of the High School.

The subject will be discussed by a panel moderated by Mrs. Douglas MacNeil. Members of the panel will represent a wide variety of schools and educational authorities. They are: Mrs. Wilbur M. Young, Borough Board of Education; Fred A. Eichelberger, Lawrenceville School; Henry S. Dyer, E.T.S.; William H. Rhodes, Princeton High School; Miss Edna M. Newby, Douglass College; and Joseph L. Bolster, Jr., Princeton University.

Mrs. Samuel S. Wilks will be hostess-in-charge of the meeting. She will be assisted by Mrs. Walton B. Butterworth, Mrs. John Conroy, Mrs. John H. R. Gulick, Miss Josephine B. Hammond, Miss Julie Hudson and Mrs. Albert van Eerden.

PTA Study Groups Set. Township parents will have opportunity to join two different PTA study groups this spring. Both groups will hold their initial meetings during the first week in March.

The first group will discuss "What are the educational features being built in new schools?" with Dr. William D. Purcell leading the discussion, Tuesday, at 8 p. m. at Valley Road School. Membership will be limited to 25. Parents wishing to join the group should call 1-6006, Little Brook School, and leave their names.

The never-ending search for oil takes men to strange places—even to ocean floors.

Here Mobil scientists, the first company team of research geologists trained as skin divers, probe the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico.

From their findings have come clues which may lead to the location of new oil reserves to strengthen the Free World—to guarantee you a continuous and abundant flow of the thousands of products made from petroleum to enrich your life.

Training geologists as skin divers is but one of Mobil's pioneering methods to explore new petroleum frontiers in a world-where oil is ever more difficult and expensive to find. This progressive policy resulted in the first tapping of off-shore oil reserves out of sight of land—another example of Mobil's master touch in oil.

For more information about skin diving for oil, write to Room 2400, Socony Mobil Oil Co. Inc., 150 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.

TIME FOR A CHANGE? Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman says, "Yes." In reference to the political structure of Princeton Borough and Township, scrutinized in Question of the Week. However, not everyone seems to agree with him. For a glimpse at a few typical reactions, see Question's answers below. (Photo by Alan Richards)

Question of the Week

Question: Looking ahead a bit, do you think the Republicans will experience difficulty in Princeton this fall? (For background, see box, this page).

Location: Around town.

Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman, 62 Knoll Drive, leader of the Jewish Center of Princeton: If it is true that Republicans are usually the rich, then, judging from the high cost of living here, only Republicans are moving into Princeton. Personally, I hope it isn't true—we need opposition and competition in politics. In fact, perhaps Princeton's Democrats should use a Republican phrase of a few years ago—"it's time for a change." Governor Meyner's presence here might well make a difference, though I doubt if the fact that Ike will not run this year is going to have any influence in Princeton. Let me add—the Republicans should experience difficulty for a healthy atmosphere.

Edward L. Anderson, U. S. 1, test specialist with ETS: I doubt it. Unless a majority of people in Princeton Borough and Township should find reasons for dissatisfaction between now and election time, I doubt that the Republicans should experience any significant difficulty. I understand that the Princeton area has been strongly Republican for years. I doubt that issues on the state or national level will be very materially reflected in these local elections.

John Norman, 41 Pine Street, tractor repairman: I think they will run into a great deal of trouble. The people who said that it wasn't a party but an individual who won the last Presidential election were absolutely right. This time, the local Republicans will have to stand or fall on their own—and my private hope is that they'll fall.

John F. McCarthy Jr., 360 Jefferson Road, lawyer: There's no doubt in my mind at all. For one reason, the focus of attention will be off the national picture this fall and squarely on the local scene. The switch should help the Democrats a great deal. Voters will be more cognizant of local candidates in both the Borough and the Township. They also will be more inclined to consider local issues, which certainly should be many in number.

Dan Adams and Terry Conner, students at Princeton Theological Seminary: We haven't been here long enough to get a really deep knowledge of Princeton politics, but, from what we know of the Township and Borough, we hope the Republicans will sail through the election this fall without any hard winds against them. More power to them, that's what we say!

William F. Wright Jr., 220 Mercer Street, Princeton University senior and long-time resident: I believe they will. I think the Democratic presence of Governor Meyner in the neighborhood positively will help the Democrats' cause locally. Another influence may be the fact that the GOP will be obliged to use political newcomers in place of most of the party's veteran office-holders here.

Mr. X, a Trenton attorney with many interests in Princeton: My feelings are that they should. I think the Republicans in Princeton are extremely shortsighted, and it appears to me a great deal of consideration is being given to particular groups. Whether people like it or not, the city is expanding and certain changes are bound to take place. Lots of the new people coming here, as employees of the many research corporations, for instance, have very high intellectual levels, but not the kind of money which can buy a pleasant living here with the prices on lots and everything else.

Unbalance of Power

When Princeton's Democrats challenge Princeton's Republicans at the polls this November, they will look forward optimistically to the results for a number of reasons. They will be counting on Governor Meyner's active participation to aid the cause of local candidates; they will expect more "split tickets" because voters don't need to like Ike this year; and they will have used local issues to stir up Democratic interest.

The Democrats' early optimism may be misguided, based on a review of Princeton's past political preferences. For instance, in the Township, only one Democratic office-seeker has succeeded in breaking into the GOP stronghold in some 40 years of voting. And, in the Borough, though the Democrats have demonstrated occasional power and election ability, the Republicans have always managed to bounce back and remove the upstarts from their unaccustomed perches.

Don't Fall For Found Money

If your home needs new roofing or siding, you want good workmanship and materials — not a "bargain" that costs plenty.

High pressure out-of-town-operators have duped many a home owner with misleading promises and "tricky" contracts. Some do poor work with second rate materials and charge 50 to 100 per cent more than a good job would cost.

For 35 years, we've supplied quality roofing like Bird and USG and the names of competent roofers who charge fair prices. We're right here to back up our merchandise . . . and we expect to be here for a long time.

SEASON NEARS AN END

Winter Sports at Climax. The final home hockey game of the winter season and a wrestling match that will give Princeton an opportunity to win the Big Three title are on the schedule Saturday. The basketball team travels to Hanover with at least a mathematical chance left to figure in the title, but must also win against Columbia in New York next Wednesday, a double assignment that has escaped every other team in the circuit this season.

The swimming and fencing teams travel to New Haven, with Yale's fabulous skein of more than 150 consecutive triumphs sure to be increased at the Tigers' expense. The swimmers topped Rutgers last week, but were swamped by Harvard, 62-24, and Harvard doesn't figure to give Yale much of a battle. Coach Stan Sieja's fencers trimmed Harvard last weekend, 15-12, and can take the Big Three title with a victory over Yale. Jimmy Reed's wrestlers, successful over Harvard last Saturday by a 15-11 margin, will have the same designs when they square off against the Elis in Dillon Gym at 4 o'clock.

Dartmouth's hockey team will be here at 2 for the last game in Baker Rink. The Tigers conclude against Harvard Wednesday, and the Crimson will be out to repeat its 9-1 triumph of early January. Dartmouth won a close 3-2 encounter from Princeton three weeks ago, with the Tigers hoping to reverse the decision on home ice.

They lost their 15th game in 17 starts last Saturday when Yale ripped through them for a five-goal outburst in the first period. That more than offset the fact that the second round was scoreless and the Blue was outmatched in the final period, 3-2. The game with Brown last Wednesday night was played after Town Topics' deadline.

Quintet's Defense Improves. A zone defense proved to be the cure for what ailed the Princeton basketball team, the point-swings it produced ranking with the more unexpected developments of the current season. At Providence, Brown had run up 88 points in handing the Tigers a one-sided defeat, but in Dillon Gym last Friday, the Bruins were drubbed, 87-55. That was a swing of 33 in Princeton's favor.

Next night, the zone-conscious Tigers pared league-leading Yale from the 70 points the Blue had scored in winning at New Haven all the way down to 38, a 32-point swing and a somewhat astounding defensive performance against a quintet that had averaged just about double its output against the Tigers in its nine other league games this year.

What made the contest against the Bulldogs so unusual was the fact that the Blue was held to eight points in the first half, a figure that is probably unduplicated in college basketball played here for the past 30 years. The only game in which Princeton has been involved that bears any similarity was one the Tigers dropped in 1932 to Dartmouth at Hanover, 31 to 13. In the first half, they scored just five points (eventually winning the title in a playoff against Columbia when they trimmed the Lions for the third time in one season.)

Saturday's game against Yale—which produced a 56-38 final—was full of oddities. For example:

- In holding the losers to four lone field goals, Princeton was charged with just one foul in the first 20 minutes.
- In the final 13 minutes in the opening half, Yale scored just two points and its shooting average at the intermission was 13%.
- Larry Downs, high-scoring Eli sophomore who had averaged 18 points in his first nine Ivy games, was held scoreless from the floor and made just three free throws before fouling out with 11 minutes to go.

Happiest by-product of the victory was the fact that the Tigers finally licked the all-court press that had beaten them time and against last season and at New Haven a fortnight ago. When the Blue first began to employ it in the second half of Saturday's game, Princeton twice lost possession through inability to bring the ball across mid-court in ten seconds and was called for three charging fouls in attempts to break through.

From a 21-8 half-time lead, Princeton moved further in front to 30-13 but the all-court press cut the bulge to 33-22. At that point, however, sophomore Art Klein began to find the target on long passes to Whitey Fulcomer, Captain Don Davidson, Ken MacKenzie and Carl Belz, with this quartet dropping in a number of easy layups that took off all the pressure. Fulcomer was high with 23 while Yale's Johnny Lee accounted for half the losers' points with 19. Fulcomer and Belz, who got 15, paced the Tigers to a 61-45 advantage in rebounds.

It was Belz who had a big night against Brown, as he ripped off seven straight points to begin the game, collected 19 in the first half and wound up with 31, just two short of Princeton's all-time record. Fulcomer helped the cause with 21, as the Orange and Black rolled to a 44-26 half-time lead and was never in difficulty.

Had the team found its form of last weekend in time to avert defeats by Brown and Harvard two weeks ago, it would now be leading the Ivy parade with a 9-1 mark. Nonetheless, victories over Dartmouth and Columbia away from home would still be essential to success—an extremely difficult feat that must now be achieved to earn a playoff berth.

Cooks Bake a Cake

There was just cause for celebration in the Peter C. Cook family of Kingston when Saturday's hockey scores were reported from various sources.

In Baker Rink, the Princeton freshman team, coached by Peter G. Cook, Sr., staged a four-goal rally in the third period to earn a well-deserved victory over Yale, 8 to 5. Credited with two valuable assists was Peter C. Cook, Jr. a member of the first line.

In Andover, Mass., Phillips Exeter topped its traditional rival, Phillips Andover, 5 to 4. Playing center on the first line and credited with a goal and two assists was Johnny Cook, 15-year old member of the Cook family who is just a year out of Country Day School.

PHS CAGE FINALE

Night Game Friday. Officially excluded from post-season tournament competition by their coach, Tony Borzok, the Little Tigers of Princeton High, now playing basketball like cagers who wish they were tournament-bound, will travel to Hightstown to meet the Rams in their season's finale this Friday evening. The PHS quintet won its first game of the campaign at Hightstown's expense, 68-43, in December, before PHS had jelled, so the Princeton club should experience no difficulty in finishing the 18-game slate with a decisive triumph.

At the season's outset, Borger told his team that he would consider entering a tourney only if a record comparable to last year's regular-campaign mark (12-5) could be attained. This year's club will wind up well shy of that fine record, since the '57 Little Tigers have taken a long time to get rolling, but Borzok may be a little sorry he has stuck by his guns inasmuch as some of the tournament entries now look like easy pickings for his revitalized five.

PHS proved a case in point last week by trouncing Lawrenceville School's prep team — something the Blue and White hasn't been able to accomplish in the past. True, the Laurentions were far from peak strength, with three of their early-season regulars out of action for a variety of reasons, but still they represented a perennially difficult prep school—and still Princeton managed an encouraging 73-55 victory.

Repeating a format that has been effective on several occasions of late, the Little Tigers caught the Red and Black completely by surprise by opening the contest with a breakneck fast-break, a confusing full-court press and a display of tide-turning ball-stealing. Led by Nick Kovalsikides, they also dominated both backboards and, as a result, were way out of reach, 25-5, by the end of the startling first quarter.

Captain Dick Borger, Alan Ammerman, Steve Hogarty and George Wilson attacked beautifully together during that telltale opening quarter, passing with accuracy and each contributing handsomely to the high PHS point total. Reserves played the last three minutes of the first half for Princeton, holding on to a 40-19 advantage, then Lawrenceville exhibited its sole "hot streak" of the afternoon in the third period to close the gap to 51-39. In the fourth, PHS began clicking once again as the visitors ran out of gas.

Every member of Borzok's 12-man squad saw action against Lawrenceville, with four hitting double figures. Per usual, Ammer-men was Princeton's top scorer, with 21, followed by Borger, 15, Hogarty, 11, and Wilson, 10. Co-Captain Bill Haynesworth put on a terrific one-man show for the losers, tallying 11 field goals and 10 free throws for 32 markers, including 10 points on five quick baskets during the Laurentians' 20-point third quarter. During the "hot streak," Pres Seckel scored all eight of his runner-up totel for the prepsters.

Princeton's biggest margin in the one-sided win was 23 points late in the second period, while the best Lawrenceville could do after the opening bulge was effected was a narrowing to 13 in the third. (For a report on this Tuesday's meeting with North Plainfield away from home, read account on page 21).

HUN LOSES 12TH

Admiral Farragut Scores. Hun School's poverty-stricken, live-for-the-future basketball team, composed entirely of juniors and sophomores, hoped against hope this week for a triumph in its final game of the season—at home against Croyden Hall at 2:30 p.m. Friday—but realized it probably must "wait 'til next year."

Coach Dick Wentworth's Red and Black club had ample reason for feeling futile going into the finale, since defeat No. 12 in 14 starts was absorbed last Saturday. Adding insult to injury, Admiral Farragut Academy (only 3-11 for the campaign) inflicted the damage, 65-44.

(Wednesday afternoon's out-of-town contest with Solebury School, a February 6 winner over Hun, was played too late for inclusion in this issue).

BOWLING NOTES

Continued rough sledding for Princeton bowlers this past week. . . . Joe Baldino dropped from seventh to eighth place among the 10 finalists in the Trenton Times Match Game Bowling Tournament, with only five of 50 games to be rolled. . . . Distaff keglers wound up all but out of the money in the 1957 Trenton Suburban Women's Bowling Tournament, held here. . . . And, in league competition at Princeton Recreation Center, only 22 games of 200-plus were registered. . . . Despite all the bad news, Baldino's faithful cheering section at Curtis Academy afforded him much support, issuing the loudest cheer when he picked up a 6-7 split in his first game.

Highlight of the week was Belle Mead's success in the Tri-County Firemen's League as a sweep of three over Lawrenceville put Belle Mead (100 wins) in first place ahead of Princeton No. 1 (99), which dropped two of three to Mercer No. 3 and fell from the top spot for the first time this season. . . . In the other men's loops, Frazee's Market (26) moved to the fore in the Major League, just in front of Decker's Dairy and Blett's (24 apiece), Sunbeam (62) held its slim advantage over Tiger Garage (60) in the "A" League, Jefferson Plumbing moved into a tie for first with Boice Lumber (26 each) in the "B" League, and Nassau Del (60) continued its mastery of the Industrial League, outdistancing runner-up Glenmoor (46).

Decker's Dairy (42) lost a bit of ground to Nassau Service (38) in the Women's Industrial League, while Cranbury Pharmacy forged into a three-way deadlock for the lead in the Princeton Women's Bowling League with Castoro GMC and Dayton V, each with 30 wins. . . . Those top 21 games in men's play were: Larry Golden,

LITTLE TIGERS LOSE

Record Now 8-9. Princeton High's diehard basketball team dropped its first game in the last four outings Tuesday afternoon, losing a 70-67 thriller to North Plainfield on the winning club's court. The Little Tigers were ahead 67-66 with 30 seconds to play, when John Urban got hot for the spirited Canucks and connected with two quick field goals for the triumph.

With both teams playing even and interesting ball, the contest was nip-and-tuck all the way. North Plainfield grabbed a slim 18-17 first-period advantage, but the Little Tigers, bothered at first by the Canucks' fan-shaped backboards, started dominating matters in the second period and seemed en route to victory. They led 34-26 with two minutes remaining until halftime, only to see this margin pared to one point as Bob Martin sparked a seven-point rally with three sudden baskets.

Princeton still commanded the battle 52-49 at the three-quarter mark, but blew another game in the late stages as the Canucks outscored PHS 21-15 in the final session. Alan Ammerman hit for 24 markers in a losing cause, with teammates Dick Borger and George Wilson contributing 13 apiece and Nick Kovalakides sinking 11. For North Plainfield, Martin was tops with 23, followed by Dick Sullivan with 13, Urban with 12 and Tom Neal with 11. PHS' shooting average was 41% (27 for 65) from the floor.

As a result of the setback, Princeton's record fell below the .500 mark once more—to 8-9. The Little Tigers learned, however, that they will be given a good chance to finsh the campaign with a winning won-lost ledger, for, in addition to the Hightstown contest Friday, they will play a return match with Trenton High—in Trenton—next Monday night. Back in December, before Wilson joined the club, the Blue and White dropped a 65-64 decision to the Trentonians. The Little Tigers figure Wilson could make the difference this time.

Princeton's JV five kept on even terms with the varsity, absorbing a 63-46 defeat in North Plainfield and dropping to the 8-9 level. Tony Boccanfuso's 12 points represented the best output for the PHS juniors, while Edgar Riddick, with 11, and Butch Cross, with 10, also hit double figures in defeat.

PCD Sextet Wins Two More. Victories over Summit and the Lawrenceville junior varsity have raised Princeton Country Day School's hockey record to 8-0. The Blue and White will complete its 1957 season this Thursday afternoon with another game against Lawrenceville.

Ability to come from behind kept the Country Day record clear in both contests. Summit held a 1-0 lead before goals by Pony Fraker and Jobe Stevens gave the home team a 2-1 triumph. Lawrenceville also moved out in front briefly, Fraker scoring twice and Webb Harrison once to make it a 3-1 final.

Rug Mart Finishes First. Unbeaten in the YMCA Basketball League as play began this week, the Rug Mart's 9-0 record was good enough to assure it of first place by a wide-margin. Its victim last week was Montgomery Township by 95-58.

In other contests, Plainsboro edged Gallup & Robinson, 71-69, and the Federalists outlasted the All-Stars, 54-50. Games next Monday at the high school send G&R against the All-Stars and Montgomery against the Federalists. The playoffs start the following week.

A LOOK INTO THE FUTURE: This handsome drawing shows The Hun School as it will be in the future, following completion of a $400,000 development project. The building program is scheduled to include a two-story, 12,136-quare foot dormitory, a 1,260-square foot lounge, a dining hall for 200 persons and a modern, 2,000-square foot kitchen. An enclosed passageway will join the present school, Edgerstoune (right foreground), with the new structure. When completed, the facilities will accommodate an enrollment of 170 students, thus making the institution self-supporting. Preliminary plans for the project, prepared by Charles K. Agle, architect, have been approved by the Hun board of trustees.

MUSIC In Princeton

SATISFYING EVENING

Benefit Concert a Success. The concert by the Princeton Symphony Orchestra Saturday in McCarter Theatre demonstrated once again that devoted amateurs, well-rehearsed, alert and attentive, can provide a completely satisfying evening of music which at times might even be said to approach professional perfection.

To be sure, not all the members of the Princeton Symphony are amateur musicians. Many have had successful careers as performing artists, and one strongly suspects the presence of imported professionals reinforcing the native talent. Be that as it may, the spirit of the group is that of a community effort, of musical enthusiasts combining their talents with a high degree of taste and technical skill.

Much of the credit for the fine showing of the orchestra this season undoubtedly belongs to its conductor, Nicholas Harsanyi. His program last Saturday (music by Beethoven, Schubert, Bartok and Rachmaninoff) was carefully selected to reveal what the orchestra could do, while at the same time keeping its limitations in the background.

The most considerable work of the evening was Schubert's Symphony No. 5, in B Major. Scored as it is for small orchestra, without trumpets and timpani, it presents more the aspect of a chamber music composition rather than a full scale symphonic conception. As such, it seemed ideally suited to the Princeton orchestra.

Most successful in performance was the third movement minuet which, with its G minor tonality and strong accents seemed as much a movement out of Mozart (the G Minor Symphony) as Schubert. The trio, played at exactly the right tempo, was a beautifully projected moment of unclouded lyricism.

The tempo of the first movement ,however, posed a greater problem. For such a cheerful work, the drive was almost too relentless; Mr. Harsanyi, in order to hold his group together, was forced to assume the role of mere time-beater, with the resultant loss of ease and flexibility.

Sylvia Nichols was piano soloist in the Concerto No. 2 in C Minor, by Rachmaninoff. To make any kind of effect today, this overworked showpiece must have some special addition to justify its continued presence in the concert hall—a pianist with brilliant technique, a ravishing orchestral sound—something to distract the listener from the banality of the actual musical material.

Despite Mrs. Nichols' obvious command of the work, there were no fireworks in the fast movements, and very little rich, singing tone in the slow—both de rigueur in music of this sort. The Adagio abounded in romantic cliches, and the Allegro suffered from numerous tempo changes. It was particularly clear in the first movement that there were two distinct musical temperaments at work; at points where it really counted, Mr. Harsanyi and Mrs. Nichols could hardly have thought themselves in the same room.

The Hungarian Peasant Songs of Bela Bartok proved to be the highpoint of the concert. Coming as they did after moving addresses by Dr. Charles Erdman and Ilona Massey for Hungarian relief, the songs (for orchestra) provided the most convincing evidence of the vitality of Hungarian culture. Bartok, in writing on the folk music of his native land, has said that the simpler the melody, the more complex and strange may be the harmonization and accompaniment that go with it.

Although the harmonization of few of the songs played by the Princeton Symphony had the strangely autonomous existence characteristic of others from the same collection, those that were performed were distinguished by the variety of rhythmic and melodic contrasts, as well as orchestration. The vigor of Mr. Harsanyi's interpretation, together with the virtuosity displayed by the orchestra, resulted in the most relaxed and enthusiastic music-making of the evening.

Seminary Choir Sings Brahms. The Oratorio Choir of Princeton Seminary has scheduled a performance of the German Requiem by Johannes Brahms for Tuesday at 7:45 in Miller Chapel.

Excerpts from this concert were performed last Monday by the choir during a church-dedication ceremony in Bethlehem, Pa. The soloists are Janice Harsanyi, soprano, and James McKeever, baritone, accompanied by David Prince at the piano and Helen Collins at the organ.

What, No Tea Party?

The spirit of Paul Revere — in the person of TV cowboy star Rex Trailer — will gallop into Princeton sometime Saturday afternoon as part of a real-life re-enactment of a little-known but important 360-mile ride the famous patriot made back in 1773, two years prior to his storied "Midnight Ride." After beginning his Sons of Liberty jaunt in Boston last Sunday, the authentically garbed rider will complete it in Philadelphia next Monday, when his sponsors plan to dedicate a new $15,000,000 Sheraton Hotel.

In December of '73, patriot Revere covered the distance in seven days, carrying explosive news of the Boston Tea Party to fellow patriots in New York and Philadelphia. Though overlooked by Longfellow and other writers who have immortalized the subsequent "Midnight Ride," this Boston-to-New York ride served as a major catalyst in uniting the colonies on the eve of the American Revolution.

According to advance publicity, TV star Trailer will stop for coffee in Elizabeth, which may sound like an inappropriate move for a guy who's supposed to be so interested in a big tea party. Quite appropriately, however, he will be lodged here overnight Saturday at the Old Nassau Tavern (also according to the publicists).

Prayer Around the World

Since 1887 the first Friday in Lent has been set aside by the World Council of Church Women as a World Day of Prayer.

Next Friday, March 8, Princeton's Council of Church Women will lead the Princeton community in observance of the day. Services will be held in the sanctuary of the Second Presbyterian church, Nassau and Chambers Street, at 8 p.m. There will be a Children's Service at 3:15 in the church school building of the Second Church (entrance on Chambers Street).

"Who Shall Separate Us?", a theme based on Romans 8:35, will be carried out in churches around the world, starting in the Tenga Islands and closing, 142 countries later, on St. Lawrence Island, Alaska. The program was written by Mrs. Bela Vassady, formerly of Budapest where she was an official of the Women's Federation of the Reformed Church of Hungary.
